CallTower Acquires Appia Communications

Highly complementary product offering and addition of key personnel broadens CallTower's position as a leading global communications provider with expanded offerings to meet growing demand

March 6, 2018

South Jordan, Utah - CallTower Inc., a global leader in delivering cloud-based enterprise-class unified communications and collaboration solutions, announced today that it has purchased Appia Communications Inc., a Traverse City, Michigan based industry leader of cloud-based applications and communication services.

In joining forces, CallTower will be able to deliver a broader range of services and solutions to the combined customer base and new business customers of all sizes. The combination further broadens employees, shareholders, partners and customer's overall value while strengthening CallTower communication service offering.

"The acquisition of Appia creates an exciting opportunity for our customers, partners and shareholders," said CallTower's Chief Executive Officer, Bret England. "In addition to expanding product offerings and market position, this is a strategic transaction for our customers and partners. We believe this combination will give our customers greater product choices, expanded support, and more resources. We are looking forward to working diligently and expeditiously to integrating Appia into CallTower, releasing additional innovative products and services, and continuing to provide best in class customer experience."

Both companies are highly rated by customers and partners on implementations, service, along with product and technical knowledge base. Collectively, CallTower and Appia have successfully implemented and support more than 150,000 users on cloud-based communication services.
